NOTES

25X1

UN - Middle East: The head of the UN Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) has expressed serious concern over the ability of his organization to maintain the Palestinian refugee camps in the Middle East. Budgetary problems in any case will probably cause some reduction in services during 1970 and may create unrest among the refugees. The fedayeen, who have small enclaves within the refugee camps, are telling UNRWA for the first time that UN and other non-Arab assistance to refugees should be terminated. Their notion is that a cutoff of outside assistance would drive the refugees into fedayeen hands.
